

CHAS. KING AND MISS BATES WED

Beautiful flowers and green leaves surrounded Miss Jeanne T. Bates and Mr. Charles E. King when they were married last evening in the Bishop Memorial Chapel at Kamehameha, and later they stood almost within a bower of the golden shower blossoms when they received their friends at the Preparatory School.

Loving hands of fellow teachers and pupils had transformed the interior of the church during the day until it was a sylvan scene in green and white with its masses of palms, potted plants, ferns and banana stalks, with here and there blossoms of the oleander and marguerites peeping out from screens of fern.

A wedding bell of ferns and white flowers was suspended from groined arches by ropes of ferns and broad white ribbons.

To the strains of Lohengrin the bridal party entered the church. Preceding the group came two girls, Emily and Minnie Ingham, one in pink and the other in blue, carrying baskets filled with flowers. Behind them in white waists and dark trousers came two boys of the Preparatory School, bearing a cushion on which rested the wedding ring. The groom entered with Mr. Robinson. The bride entered wearing on the arm of Theodore Richards, who gave her away. The bride's gown was of white pineapple silk over tulle, trimmed with mousseline de soie pleatings and ruffles, the yoke of dotted tulle. The veil was of white tulle caught up with a spray of stephanotis. The Rev. Henry Parker performed the marriage service.

Following the wedding a reception was given the couple at the Preparatory School. They stood in a conservatory of golden shower blossoms on a screen of netting, while banked behind were potted palms and ferns. Over the archways golden shower were arranged. A bowl of fruit punch covered with golden shower blossoms was set at the foot of the staircase. The presents displayed were the practical things needed for housekeeping. There was a quantity of silverware, besides many pieces of handwork by the girls of the Girls' School. The latter made the bride's gown. Several hundred people attended the wedding and reception. The boys of the school stood upon the lawn and sang throughout the reception. After the reception the couple were driven to the other side of the Paia and will spend their honeymoon at Waikoloa. They will make their future home on Maui, where Mr. King will serve as a Normal School Inspector.

ST. LOUIS COLLEGE ENTERTAINMENT

Fully 600 people were delightfully entertained last night in the theater at St. Louis College, with a musical and dramatic entertainment which was presented by the boys in an able manner. One of the chief features of the evening was the calliothene marches, participated in by the small boys. The little fellows, in their white suits and cadet caps, made a pleasing sight, and won much applause.

In the melodrama, a laughable skit, which followed, all did so well that no special mention need be made. Much praise is due to the college Brothers who have so successfully trained the boys in their various parts. The musical part of the program was excellent, the college band doing exceptionally fine work. Master Walter Gough's violin solo was received with as great enthusiasm as it deserved, it being played with skill worthy of a much older person.

Among those present were Rev. Fathers Mathias, Sylvester, Valentin and Stephen, Mons. Vizzavona, Senator Canavaro, Col. Girard, U. S. A., and many other prominent Honoluluans, while here and there throughout the audience were seen the faces of rising young business men, who in former years took part in similar exercises at St. Louis and are now proud to claim her as their "Alma Mater."

CEMETERY FOR THE HEBREWS

At a meeting yesterday afternoon in Progress Hall, held by members of the "First Hebrew Congregation of Honolulu," at which 25 members were present, the name was unanimously changed to "The Hebrew Cemetery Association." The organization was started on McKinley Memorial Day. Through the untiring efforts of its officers, who will in a short time apply for a charter, sufficient funds have been secured for carrying out the objects of the new association. The credit for raising the funds is due to Fred Stern and M. S. Levy, as well as the other officers, President S. Ehrlich, Treasurer Eli Peck, J. Harmon Levi. The old officers of the association were yesterday elected for the new organization, with the exception of secretary and J. M. Levy was elected to fill the vacancy. The site to be bought is at Pearl City.
